Testimonials from editors:

Ann is such a professional, and a real pleasure to work with. I always know upfront what kind of story she will deliver based on her excellent pitches, and I have never been disappointed. She always goes the extra mile to write stories that surprise and enlighten.

Editor, Best Health Magazine

Ann Chandler is a cheery, independent thinker who is a great joy to work with on the many articles she has written for Canadian Cowboy Country magazine. Deadlines are always met and the articles are well-written. I do want to add this; and all editors will appreciate this level of professionalism:

Even though Ann lives in an urban environment, she has taken the time to read our publication and familiarized herself with our interests, and she targets her story ideas specifically to our readership. That is a breath of fresh air.

Story responses:

“Thank you, Ann Chandler, for the special feature on “Digging History” (The Beaver). As an archaeologist, I feel gratified to see the coverage you supplied. You’ve done a good job of portraying what we are trying to do. I’ve also learned a good deal about the latest work of my colleagues across the country. I’ve really enjoyed this survey and hope that other readers do, too.”

“I wanted to let you know that the Canadian Cowboy with your Frolek Ranch article arrived over the holidays. It is absolutely fantastic. You did a wonderful job and I’d work with you again in a heartbeat.”

Barbara Pryce,
Okanagan Program Manager
Nature Conservancy of Canada

“Your article was lovely. My family and I all agree that it is the most accurate of all the articles that have been written about Katy. You were able to condense a lot of information about Katy and Upopolis into a clear and caring commentary. Friends have purchased the July issue of Reader’s Digest as well as family.”
